ON SEPTEMBER 17TH, WEAR A BLUE HAT

When UN peacekeeping forces enter a region, they are recognized by the blue berets and helmets they wear.

Wearing a blue hat will symbolize the urgent need to protect the people of Darfur with UN peacekeeping forces.

Despite the 2006 May 5 Darfur Peace Agreement, genocide by guns, rape & starvation has grown worse. So far, 400,000 civilians have been killed and 2,000,000 have been driven from their burning homes, crops and livestock.

Only a robust UN force with teeth will stop Khartoum government-sponsored Janjaweed militia bulles from raping, murdering and displacing civilians with impunity.

On September 17, people around the world will pressure Governments to send troops to save the lives of innocent civilians.

Mobina Jaffer, former Canada Peace Envoy to Sudan.

On September 17 2006, campaigners will hold the biggest campaigning day for Darfur since the start of the conflict. Thousands of people in dozens of cities will call on their governments to do more to protect civilians in Darfur.

September 17th marks the one-year anniversary of the United Nations' pledge to provide security for civilians around the world. People all over the world will gather to remind the UN of its unfulfilled responsibility and the continuing suffering in Darfur.
